

Negative Relating
(sarcasm, cruelty, pig-tail pulling, bitterness)

Wrong Attitudes

- I don't know how to handle negativity in my own life, so I transfer it to my tribe (roommate/wife/children).
- Because of my floating bitterness, I don't know how to respond to happy people.
- If I feel bad, everyone should pay.
- My outlook is always one of seeing the worst in every circumstance.

Wrong Actions

- When things don't go well at work, rather than sharing that, I get negative toward my roommate/wife/children, and pick or pig-tail pull.
- Others' happiness is a threat to me, so I pig-tail pull to bring them down with me; then I can be happy.
- I'll control my environment with a great amount of emotional negativity, thereby bringing my roommate/wife/children down into my "black cloud".
- When people ask penetrating questions that I don't want to answer, I "stiff-arm" them (self-protection) -- build barriers.
- I never compliment but always find an area to criticize which will tear down the person I love.

Mature Response

1. I have to get to the root of the problem for why I am negative, and admit that it is a sin.
2. I need to apply God's Truth to the root cause of my...
  - a) negative self-image. [Position truths: Eph 1:1-13; Ps 139; Rom 8:1]
  - b) holding on to past hurts, failures, rejection, etc. [Phil 3:13,14; Eph 4:32]
  - c) bitterness. Need to root out bitterness and allow the discipline of the Lord to train me into the fruit of righteousness. [Heb 12:5-15]
3. I need to experience God's love which will free me from the clutches of negativity and the desire to denigrate others so I feel good. [I John 4:16; Rom 5:5]
4. I must express God's love in sacrificial giving...
  - a) with humility [Phil 2:1-5]
  - b) with honesty [I Tim 1:12-16]
  - c) with consistency [I Cor 13:8]

The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that every entry should be supported by a valid receipt or invoice. This ensures transparency and allows for easy verification of the data.

In the second section, the author outlines the various methods used to collect and analyze the data. This includes both manual and automated processes. The goal is to ensure that the information is both reliable and up-to-date.

The third part of the document provides a detailed breakdown of the results. It shows that there has been a significant increase in sales over the period covered. This is attributed to several factors, including improved marketing strategies and better customer service.

The fourth section discusses the challenges faced during the process. One major issue was the lack of standardized data formats across different departments. This made it difficult to integrate the information and draw meaningful conclusions.

To address these challenges, the author proposes several solutions. These include implementing a unified data management system and providing training to staff on best practices for data collection and reporting.

Finally, the document concludes with a summary of the key findings and recommendations. It stresses the need for ongoing monitoring and evaluation to ensure that the data remains accurate and useful for decision-making.

The overall conclusion is that while there are challenges, the benefits of a robust data management system far outweigh the costs. By following the guidelines outlined in this document, organizations can improve their operational efficiency and gain valuable insights into their performance.

It is hoped that these findings will be helpful to other organizations looking to optimize their data collection and analysis processes.
